2 Eccentric billionaire Howard Hughes liked Swanson's frozen TV dinners, especially the turkey entree. But he didn't approve of Swanson's mixing of white and dark meat. # 7 TURKEY FACTS

Chicago Tribune

As we approach Thanksgiving, you're welcome to seven helpings of turkey facts.

7 If you feel like taking a nap after your Thanksgiving feast, don't blame the turkey. The whole tryptophan-in-the-turkey-makes-you-sleepy idea is a myth. In fact, turkey doesn't contain any more tryptophan than many other meats. The real culprit is the sheer quantity of food you just inhaled.

6 If an adult male turkey is a tom, what's a young male turkey? A jake.

4 Playwright Arthur Miller and his wife, photographer Inge Morath, were counterfeit carnivores during Thanksgiving.

"Since we're vegetarians, I usually make a pretend turkey out of vegetables—a piece montee."

—Morath told The New York Times in 1981.

5 Before the Turkey Trot became the go-to name for a 5K race in November, it was a controversial ragtime-style dance in the early 1900s. It was considered quite vulgar, and it was often banned, which, of course, just made it insanely popular.

After attending the infamous “Oops” Republican debate in Michigan, I’ve come to two conclusions: First, President Obama will win a second term, and second, I’m going to need a left eyebrow transplant after raising it so many times in what I call “confusio-horror.”

As I watched from the media filing center in an auxiliary basketball court, I was struck by just how divorced the rhetoric espoused by that collection of losers and half-wits was from the reality of the challenges we face—those still screamed in the streets by the evicted Occupy movement.

On stage, Mitt Romney’s sound-bite-generating software appeared to be without bugs. Newt Gingrich told the Occupiers they’re stupid and don’t understand history. Herman Cain appeared to not know what “Italy” is. And, of course, Rick Perry couldn’t remember which federal agencies he would eliminate. Oops.

Lost amid all the jockeying to face Obama is the dirty secret that he’s been the most effective president of the past 50 years. Unfortunately for him, many of his successes are based on what didn’t happen. For instance, any fair economist will tell you that his administration’s (imperfect) actions—including the stimulus and restructuring of the automakers that single-handedly saved the industrial Midwest—are the only reason we’re not facing down the Great Depression II.

Whatever its insufficiencies, Obamacare is the largest program to combat poverty and inequality in 50 years. He championed the Consumer Protection Agency, which for some reason Tea Party acolytes want to repeal (so banks can go back to screwing people, I guess).

While his action on the greatest unfolding disaster of our time has been utterly insufficient, he’s still made unprecedented efforts to curb global-warming emissions. He got us out of Iraq as promised and led an international coalition in Libya in what became the most successful humanitarian intervention ever, ultimately leading to the death of a tyrant just as brutal as the guy we spent a decade, more than 4,000 lives and $1 trillion to oust.

Oh yeah, and he put one in bin Laden’s dome.

You can bet that if in his eight years Bush had accrued the war record that Obama has managed in just three, they’d be dynamiting faces off Mount Rushmore to get his dim-bulb smirk up there.

I readily admit, it hasn’t been enough, but that’s probably as much our fault as Obama’s. We need a sustained and unrelenting movement calling for the major changes to our ossified political, economic and energy systems that are so obvious and urgent.

Yet we’ve reached a place where we’re told the First Amendment allows wealthy special interests to use a massive financial advantage to maintain an economic and political order that benefits them at the expense of everyone else while aggrieved citizens of a democracy cannot use non-violent protests to draw attention to the outsized and destructive influence of that elite. My left eyebrow grows weary.

National debt deal?

Remember the “super committee” that was supposed to fix the debt crisis? CNN reports it might announce Monday that it will miss Wednesday’s deadline.

TUESDAY

‘The Muppets’

Jason Segel. Amy Adams. Kermit. Miss Piggy. And Fozzie Bear?! Yeah, this movie is worth staying up for the midnight showings to watch.

WEDNESDAY

Black Wednesday

Eat, drink and start your long weekend in style! Just make sure you don’t turn it into Blackout Wednesday.

THURSDAY

Thanksgiving

Football, feasts and parades. What’s not to like about this holiday?

FRIDAY

Black Friday shopping

Spend money like the national economy depends on it! Because it kinda does.

More people, less food

Pantries in tight spot with federal cutbacks and rising prices

Chicago Tribune

As the holiday season approaches, food pantries across Chicago are noticing a trend: The number of people in need remains at near-record levels, while the amount of food they can provide is declining.

People start lining up well before the Irving Park Food Pantry opens at 9 a.m. each Wednesday.

As the economy continues to languish, the lines have been getting longer, volunteers said.

September was a record month as far as the number of people seeking food at the pantry, Executive Director John Psiharis said.

"We keep breaking one record after another," he said. According to statistics through October—before the pantry entered its two busiest months of the year—it already was on par to serve more than its 2009 record level of 21,417 people.

But providing the same amount of food is difficult, mainly because of federal cutbacks that have diminished the amount of food the pantries receive, according to the Greater Chicago Food Depository, the bank that provides food to a network of 650 pantries, soup kitchens and shelters.

Commodity foods from the U.S. Depart-

Volunteer Linda Torrez hands out food items to a client at the Irving Park Food Pantry. Food pantries across the region are seeing a rise in the number of people who need help—and a drop in the food available to hand out. "We're really in a challenging situation this year," said Bob Dolgan, a spokesman for the Greater Chicago Food Depository. JOSÉ M. OSORIO/TRIBUNE

ment of Agriculture—provided free to food banks such as the Food Depository—have been sharply reduced, said Januari Smith, spokeswoman for the Illinois Department of Human Services.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, Illinois received 30.1 million pounds of food from the USDA, Smith said.

This year, the state is on par to receive

18.8 million pounds—a 37.5 percent decrease, based on the 4.7 million pounds Illinois has received in the first quarter, she said.

Rising food costs and the end of American Recovery and Reinvestment Act funding helped contribute to the cuts, Smith said.

As a result, the Greater Chicago Food Depository expects to distribute 8 million pounds fewer than the 69 million pounds of food it circulated between July 1, 2010, and June 30, according to spokesman Bob Dolgan.

At the same time, the organization expects to provide food for 5.1 million people in Cook County—just shy of the record 5.2 million served between July 1, 2009, and June 30, 2010, Dolgan said.

"We're really in a challenging situation this year," Dolgan said.

Deficit panel a super failure

Sen. Jon Kyl (R-Ariz.), a member of the bipartisan deficit-reduction "super committee," meets with reporters Sunday. The two sides have been unable to reach a deal, aides say. GETTY IMAGES

5 WASHINGTON After more than two months of talks, the congressional deficit-reduction committee looked set to concede failure, unable to bridge deep partisan differences over taxes and spending going into the 2012 elections.

Republican and Democratic lawmakers cast doubt on any possibility of agreement in appearances on Sunday talk shows. Without some unexpected breakthrough, aides said, the 12-member bipartisan "super committee" will admit defeat Monday.

Some panel members appeared to be stepping up blame as the clock ticked toward an imminent deadline.

They must vote on any deal by Wednesday but Monday is the deadline to have legislation written and presented to the entire committee.

"Nobody wants to give up hope. Reality is, to some extent, starting to overtake hope," Representative Jeb Hensarling, the panel's Republican co-chairman, said on "Fox News Sunday."

President Obama has avoided direct involvement in the talks after making his recommendations in September.

But a White House spokeswoman urged the panel to make the "tough choices" to complete its task—a package of at least $1.2 trillion in deficit reduction over the next decade.

On NBC's "Meet the Press" program, neither Republican Sen. Jon Kyl nor Democratic Sen. John Kerry gave any indication a deal was near. They stuck to their parties' entrenched positions and blamed the other side for deadlock.

If the panel does not reach consensus, automatic spending cuts of $1.2 trillion over a decade are due to start in 2013.

WHAT'S THE ISSUE?

The deadlock comes back to two fundamental differences: Republican opposition to tax increases, particularly on the wealthiest Americans, and Democratic refusal to cut federal retirement and healthcare benefits without such tax increases.

BEARS-SAN DIEGO COLLIDE AT SOLDIER FIELD WITH PLAYOFFS AS A BACKDROP

It's never too early to start thinking about the NFL playoffs. In fact, now is the perfect time to start thinking about the NFL playoffs.

With struggling San Diego in town to face the Bears and just six games remaining after this week, Sunday's matchup at Soldier Field was what you might call a huge game. (And a huge letdown after the game, when reports surfaced that quarterback Jay Cutler had injured his throwing hand. Story on Page 11.)

By the time the Bears took the field, NFC North rival Detroit already had won to move a game ahead of the Bears. The Chargers had lost four straight and had watched as two AFC West teams won before kickoff.

The stakes were high. And the action on the field reflected that. You could say the atmosphere was electric. So which team's playoff hopes were rising or falling? Here's the supercharged analysis. REDEYE

1st QUARTER

» The Chargers come out of the gate fast, rolling easily downfield on the Bears D. It all came to a screeching halt in the red zone, however, as the Chargers settled for a field goal.

San Diego 3, Bears 0

» The Bears responded with a 4-and-a-half-minute drive of their own, but they, too, bogged down as they neared paydirt and turned to always-reliable Robbie Gould for the chip-shot 42-yard field goal.

San Diego 3, Bears 3

2nd QUARTER

» After almost 10 scoreless minutes to start the second half, the Bears needed just five plays to jump out to a 10-3 lead. Jay Cutler connected to Earl Bennett for 26 yards to start the drive, and Marion "The Barbarian" Barber finished it off with 1-yard run.

Bears 10, San Diego 3

» But wait, San Diego responds with Philip Rivers passing for 79 yards, 71 to Vincent Jackson, including an 8-yard touchdown pass to Antonio Gates with just 2 minutes left in the half.

Bears 10, San Diego 10

» Two minutes are all Cutler needs, apparently. After Johnny Knox returns the kickoff 53 yards, Cutler has a short field—and he makes it even shorter with a 34-yard completion to Bennett. Then, Cutler finishes the drive with a 4-yarder to Kellen Davis.

Bears 17, San Diego 10

Thumbs down on Cutler injury

Chicago Tribune

The Bears won their fifth game in a row Sunday but suffered their biggest loss of the season in the process.

Quarterback Jay Cutler broke the thumb on his throwing hand, an injury expected to sideline him six to eight weeks, according to multiple sources. Surgery is an option, but the Bears have no immediate plans to place Cutler on injured reserve. He could return for a play-off run, provided the 7-3 Bears remain in the hunt with fourth-year player Caleb Hanie moving into the starting role.

Cutler suffered the injury with 10 minutes, 3 seconds left in the fourth quarter of the Bears' 31-20 win over San Diego. He did it while attempting to tackle cornerback Antoine Cason following Cason's interception. Cutler was blocked to the ground by Chargers linebacker Donald Butler. His hustle allowed Matt Forte to keep Cason from scoring, and the Chargers failed to score after the turnover.

"Maybe Jay's biggest play of the game came on that interception, buying time for Matt Forte," coach Lovie Smith said. "Who would have thought we'd be talking about Matt Forte and Jay Cutler on a defensive play they made?"

Cutler finished the game despite the injury.

Smith did not address Cutler's injury after the game, saying the team had some "bumps and bruises" outside of long snapper Patrick Mannelly's significant knee injury.

"But we came out of the game in pretty good shape," Smith said. Cutler did not reveal anything about the injury, either, during his postgame news conference.

The Bears have a tough road test at Oakland next weekend and still have the undefeated Packers left on the schedule.

» Like two heavy-weights exchanging punches, the Bears respond, with receiver Roy Williams acting as the spark plug with three catches for 34 yards. Cutler takes matters into his own hands in the end, leaping for a one-yard touchdown.

1 Why doesn't the NFL like Earl Bennett wearing orange cleats?

Better question: Have you ever taken a shot out of an old hand grenade?

Roger Goodell has been watching "What Not To Wear (Because It Angers Your Sponsors)."

Because Tim Tebow hasn't blessed them.

Because the "F" in NFL does not stand for "Fabulous" anymore.

Because the NFL is the creation of humans. And humans are inferior beings. Goodbye. Soon.

2 Why is there a Bears defensive scheme called the "nickel smoke"?

Well, the "dime bag" D isn't a good look. Too lazy.

That would be Rod Marinelli's homage to Cheech and Chong.

That's what Tim Tebow named it.

Stop talking money and pay Matt Forte already!

"Smoke" is correct, because the robotic rebellion will lay waste to everything you know and love.

3 How did Patrick Kane celebrate his 23rd birthday over the weekend?

Hopefully the same way I did: by taking over a small town in Minnesota with his crew.

By downing as many shots as he's taken so far this season.

By eating a cake specially made by Tim Tebow.

Not sure. I haven't read Deadspin today.

Based on the cellphone pictures I intercepted ... wait. What I saw is not fit for print.

4 Who's the better player at 23 years old: Derrick Rose or Kane?

My bud Jeff Ehman says Rose. So I say Kaner, because Jeff sucks.

For Rose to be a better player he'd have to be playing, wouldn't he? 'Nuff said.

D-Rose. Tim Tebow told me.

Define "player."

Do not bother me with such petty questions, silly human. Besides, it's easily Rose.

5 America won the Presidents Cup. Insert your trash talk to the world here.

"Listen, no matter how dumb and greedy we are, we invented rap, airplanes and Bagel Bites. We the best!"

"Looks like you'll need a different cup to collect change for a bailout, Greece! Sick burn!"

Nothing like watching Tiger Woods "Tebowing."

"Two-thirds of the world is covered with water. The other third has been covered by Tiger Woods."

"Hey world, you'll be ending soon. Like Tiger's career."

Pittsburgh Penguins captain returning to ice after almost a year out

RedEye

With apologies to young Chicago hockey studs Jonathan Toews and Patrick Kane, perhaps the NHL's most popular player is returning to the ice Monday.

Sidney Crosby, captain of the Pittsburgh Penguins, will make his season debut against the N.Y. Islanders on Monday night. Crosby, 24, was sidelined in January after collisions with Washington's David Steckel on Jan. 1 and Tampa Bay's Victor Hedman on Jan. 5.

For 320 days, Pens fans—and hockey fans in general—have been wondering when Sid the Kid would come back. In case you've forgotten, here is why Crosby is such a big deal.

» Olympic gold medal winner with Team Canada in 2010. Oh, and he scored the winning goal.
» Shared top goal-scoring honors in 2010 with Steven Stamkos of the Tampa Bay Lightning.

» He's the third-youngest player to notch 500 points, behind Wayne Gretzky and Mario Lemieux.

» Stanley Cup champion with Pittsburgh in 2009.
» He won the Hart Trophy, handed out to NHL MVP, in 2007.

» At 19 years, 9 months he became the youngest team captain ever in 2007.
» In 2005-06, he became the youngest player ever to reach 100 points.

» Countless other statistical accomplishments and milestones. Want to know them all? Just Google him.

Oh, hail to the no

The stereotype is women don't know sports all too well. Victoria's Secret isn't helping. The lingerie company's Pink line of sports products made a head-shaking blunder on a Michigan State T-shirt. Under the word "Spartans" on the front was the phrase "Hail to the victors." The problem is, "Hail to the Victors" is the fight song of MSU rival Michigan. Facepalm.

TOAST WITH THE MOST

Boozy pairings to spice up dinner on Thanksgiving

By Erin Drain

FOR REDEYE

When it comes to Thanksgiving, there is no one drink to rule them all. The foods are too diverse, from the ubiquitous turkey and gravy to other traditions, such as oyster stuffing, candied sweet potatoes and, in my house, onion pie. Turduckens, deep-fried turkeys and alternative stuffings (mac 'n' cheese, anyone?) increase the chances of getting stumped over pairings, so it's hard to know what to bring—or serve, if you're hosting. My advice? Relax. I've got some guidelines—and even a distract-your-guests cocktail—that will help make sure you have a very boozy Thanksgiving this year.

WINE

White wines are more versatile than red with Thanksgiving dinner, and the wide range of dishes provides a good opportunity to try new things. Try bypassing the usual sauvignon blanc and pinot grigio in favor of aromatic whites such as Alsatian gewurztraminer or American viognier. The former tends to be spicy and occasionally a touch sweet, and plays well with seasoned veggies, caramelized onions, and sweet potatoes; the latter is heavy enough for dark turkey meat and starchy stuffing, but even domestic bottlings tend to be less exuberantly oaky than, say, many California chardonnays.

One traditional red wine for this meal is beajolais nouveau, a young, very fruity wine made from gamay. I love beajolais-villages (aged longer, a bit more mature with less fruit-punch characteristics) year-round, and the pairing works well because gamay is light on its feet, and low in tannins, which battle with vegetables and can overwhelm poultry. Beajolais can be served slightly chilled, too, and is a great red for white wine drinkers. Grapes such as pinot noir and grenache also produce fruity, light- to medium-bodied wines that are flexible enough for Thursday's smorgasbord. Ask your local wine shop clerk what he or she has in the Cotes du Rhone department if you want a heavier, spicier red.

BEER

Let's not forget our other fermented friends! Spicy, high-carbonation saisons can be an excellent foil to the rich food, while mild, malty brown ales can even pair well with pumpkin pie. Hard cider is a traditional American beverage; our colonial ancestors were huge cider-drinkers, so if you're down with U.S. history, raise a glass this Thanksgiving.

BYOB COLUMNIST ERIN DRAIN IS A REDEYE SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

Host tip: Get your guests mixing

My most important move when hosting dinner? Getting people out of my kitchen! Set up a cocktail station in another room and encourage your friends to play bartender. It's a role reversal of hosting duties, but it works—promise. My cocktail of choice is a turkey day take on the classic French 75, prettied up with homemade cranberry gin. The cocktail strikes a sweet-tart balance that pairs with a meal better than most stiff drinks.

THE RECIPE

In a shaker full of ice, combine 2 ounces cranberry-infused gin, 1/2 ounce lemon juice and 1 tablespoon simple syrup. Shake it, baby. Strain into a Collins glass half-full of ice, and top with brut champagne (anything inexpensive and not too sweet will do). Enjoy—but remember, this is a potent one!

To make cranberry-infused gin

Infusions require little precision, unlike baking or brewing.

- » Buy a bag of cranberries.
- » Wash them really well.
- » Procure a 750-milliliter bottle of London dry gin—I recommend Beefeater, as it's inexpensive and not too piney tasting.
- » Mash the cranberries in a glass bowl with half a cup of simple syrup (dissolve equal parts sugar and boiling water, let cool and save some for the cocktail recipe above) and scoop into a sterile one-quart canning jar.
- » Add gin.
- » Seal, and keep in a dark, cool place until Thanksgiving.
- » To serve, strain the liquid through a mesh sieve into a bottle, using a funnel if you have one.

Gym Class Heroes grow up on new album

Reuters

Gym Class Heroes have graduated from party life to adulthood on their latest album, "The Papercut Chronicles II," a follow-up to their first CD after three records of anthems to youth, rebellion and just plain having fun.

Lead singer Travie McCoy said the new album represents a sort of coming-of-age for the band with songs about moving ahead after lost loves and thinking more deeply about topics such as how a rock star's life is not always glamorous.

"It's about ... thinking about the bigger picture rather than the smaller things," McCoy said. "I'm 30. We've all grown up now, some of us have kids."

Along with McCoy, the New York band features drummer Matt McGinley, guitarist Disashi Lumumba-Kasongo and bassist Eric Roberts. They released their first official studio album, "The Papercut Chronicles" in 2005, and from it came one of the band's best-selling singles, "Cupid's Chokehold."

McCoy said that to draw inspiration, the band returned to "Papercut Chronicles" and looked at how far they had come since the original album.

"Papercut Chronicles II" includes a fusion of sounds including hip-hop, rock and pop on tracks like "Solo Discotheque (Whiskey Business)," "Lazarus, Ze Gitan" and the upbeat "Stereo Hearts."

"We had a sense of urgency in the past records. We were young kids searching for a sound," McCoy said. "We wanted to recreate not the album, but that sense of hunger."

West Town, Humboldt Park and Logan Square

Hispanic Housing Development Corporation (HHDC), a property management firm contracted by the Chicago Housing Authority, will be accepting applications for the re-opening of its public housing community area wait list. HHDC will be taking applications for 1, 2, 3 & 4 bedroom apartments located in the West Town, Humboldt Park and Logan Square community areas ONLY. Maximum income restrictions apply. ADA accessible units are available. The CHA will conduct an electronic lottery drawing to determine each registrant's place on the wait list.

- Applicants must reside within the West Town, Humboldt Park and Logan Square community area at the time of application, as well as during the screening and unit offer process. Residency within the same community area is part of the eligibility criteria for the community area scattered sites public housing units, per court order (a picture ID is required and two forms of proof of address).
- Applicants must qualify for a 1, 2, 3 or 4 bedroom unit based on the Occupancy Guidelines established in the CHA's Admissions and Continued Occupancy Policy.
- Applicants must be 18 years of age or older at the time the application is submitted.
- Applicants must not exceed maximum income restrictions.
- Applicants must meet HUD requirements on citizenship or eligible immigration status.
- Applicants must provide social security numbers for each member of the family, or certification that they do not have a social security number.
- Applicants must meet the CHA Work Requirement.

HHDC reserves the right to deny registrants during the screening process if they do not meet the required criteria

ROMANCE PLANET

BY JENNIFER SHEPHERD | READ MORE AT LIPSTICKMYSTIC.COM

Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 21

The moon is reminding you that it's important for you to be in a relationship with an equal. Although it's fun being the boss, ultimately, you're looking for a co-pilot, not a slave.

Sagittarius Nov. 22-Dec. 21

There are four planets in your sign, and this could make a huge difference in your love life. Your bed will be filled with willing partners or you and your honey will hit a hot new sexual groove.

Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19

With Venus preparing to enter your sign, you're feeling better about yourself than you have lately. You realize that it's not your fault that you got laid off, lost your house or lost your lover. OK, maybe it's a little bit your fault.

Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 18

You're always the star of any party or casual social gathering, and the sun is making you more charming than ever. You'll share amusing stories at a cocktail party about your past sexual misadventures.

Pisces Feb. 19-March 20

You and your honey could be quarreling about finances. Don't lose sight of the good things in your relationship. The moon is telling you to work together to come up with a winning financial plan instead of playing the blame game.

Aries March 21-April 19

A frisky sun is putting you in a crazy mood. You'll call up that cute guy or girl and propose something sweaty, even if you've never expressed lust for this person before. Maybe you'll get lucky.

Taurus April 20-May 20

Things are changing dramatically even though you're trying to keep everything the same. A relationship that was getting serious is now more of an on-again, off-again thing. Jupiter says remain flexible.

Gemini May 21-June 21

With the new moon opposite your sign, you're barking up the wrong tree. That sexy married guy is not the love of your life. Raw animal lust is preventing you from having 20/20 vision.

Cancer June 22-July 22

All relationships go through good cycles and bad cycles. Right now, Venus is moving opposite your sign and love might seem messy and annoying. You should take a break from heavy romantic pursuits.

Leo July 23-Aug. 22

A funky solar eclipse is making you anxious. You're hoping that shy guy or girl finally will agree to go out with you, and you're on pins and needles.

Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22

You're wondering if you've lost your sexual mojo. Mercury is increasing your doubts. Try not to get lost in negative thoughts. You're still sexy, you just don't feel that way at the moment.

Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23

You're a big believer in the philosophy of "What goes around comes around." Saturn is reminding you that you're right. Good deeds you've done suddenly are returning to you. Whoopee!

Who's that rising star?

If you don't know Romeo Santos from music or TV, you will soon

ABOUT LAST NIGHT

Anthony Santos used to work out at his gym in New York's Chelsea neighborhood relatively unrecognized. That changed three years ago when ads featuring Santos—aka Romeo, lead singer of the internationally known bachata band Aventura—began popping up around the city promoting the group's upcoming concerts.

His incognito gym days were over.

"These guys who never looked at me in the past were now watching me while they ran on their treadmills," a barefoot Santos said in his Park Hyatt Chicago hotel room Tuesday, hours before an album signing downtown at FYE.

"It felt kind of weird. One day, this girl came up to me at the gym and said, 'I could have sworn I saw your face on the bus today.' Just to mess with her, I said, 'No, that's not me.'"

These days, the 30-year-old singer still is mostly unknown to non-Latinos in the U.S. But with a debut solo album, "Formula Vol. 1," on the Billboard charts and his own sitcom on the way, how much longer will that last?

Santos presented an award to Justin Bieber at the 2010 MTV Video Music Awards and was invited to perform "Promise," his duet with Usher off of his solo album, on "Dancing With the Stars" (he declined due to conflicting schedules but did perform the song with Usher at the Latin Grammys on Nov. 10).

WILL SMITH CONNECTION

Anthony Santos will make his acting debut next year on an ABC comedy produced by Will Smith. Santos will play an aspiring entrepreneur in New York whose traditional Dominican father prefers he work at the family's restaurant.

In addition to the song with Usher, "Formula Vol. 1," which debuted at No. 9 on the Billboard 200 on Tuesday, includes a cameo from Lil Wayne.

While the album features more English than the predominantly Spanish Aventura albums, Santos, born to a Puerto Rican mother and Dominican father, said he doesn't consider himself a true crossover artist.

"I've always wanted to have that audience cross over to my world," Santos said. "Some of my songs are Americanized, but it's still a bachata album. I could have gone in different directions with Usher, but I chose bachata."

Play ball!

Dale Sveum celebrated his first night as the Cubs' manager by having dinner Thursday at Harry Caray's Italian Steakhouse in River North.

Sveum—who was introduced to the Chicago media the next morning—was joined by Cubs President of Baseball Operations Theo Epstein, Cubs Chairman Tom Ricketts and General Manager Jed Hoyer, among others. The group ordered prime steaks and lobsters.

Dutchie Carey, widow of late Cubs broadcaster Harry Caray, was on hand at the restaurant and welcomed Sveum to Chicago. Sveum and Epstein both posed for photos with the Harry Caray statue by the restaurant's entrance after dinner.

ALSO SPOTTED ...

» Jenny McCarthy had lunch at Market after appearing on "The Rosie Show" on Wednesday and ordered cocktails and appetizers at Roof at The Wit hotel later that night. McCarthy also was spotted Thursday at Cuvee, where she briefly got behind the bar and served drinks, and at Paris Club's upstairs lounge, Studio Paris.

» The Bears' Jay Cutler and Caleb Hanie had dinner Thursday at Paris Club.

» The Bears' Lovie Smith and Roy Williams dined separately at Gibsons Bar & Steakhouse in the Gold Coast after defeating the Detroit Lions on Nov. 13.

Marine Corps baller

Point, Mila Kunis. Following in the footsteps of "Friends with Benefits" co-star Justin Timberlake, she made good on the promise she made during the summer to attend a Marine Corps Ball in Greenville, N.C., on Friday with Sgt. Scott Moore. According to local news station WNCT, the actress arrived to the venue just before 2:30 p.m., where she quickly was whisked away from the media.

Ladies night

Taylor Swift got to break out her infamous shocked face Sunday. The country cutie picked up her second American Music Award for Artist of the Year, squealing, "Thank you to the fans, please never change!" She also won favorite female country artist and favorite country album for "Speak Now." Nicki Minaj cleaned up in the rap/hip-hop category, picking up statues for favorite artist and favorite album for "Pink Friday," while Adele won for female pop/rock artist and best album for "21."

THE DIGIT 80 percent

That's the percentage of viewers of "The Twilight Saga: Breaking Dawn—Part 1" who were female, according to Reuters. The fourth movie in the series earned $139.5 million domestically (and $283.5 million globally) to easily finish its debut weekend at No. 1.

Bluth is back

Arrested Development officially is coming back, but not on network TV. Netflix will air new episodes of the cult classic starting in 2013, thr.com reports. "I don't think I've ever been happier to wear a pair of khakis," Jason Bateman, who plays Michael Bluth, tweeted after the news was announced Friday. And we've never been happier to see him in khakis.
